of his many accomplishments as a citizen of Mattapoisett and its most avid supporter.

Past President Union recalled to the Lions Club assembled Mr. Jenney's contributions to Town Meetings and his unique ability to "keep everyone honest" with his Yankee humor. In addition to his faithful attendance at Town Meetings, Win is well remembered for the Old Rochester bulldog mascot that accompanied him to all the football games over the year. Win was also thanked as a long-standing contributor of pictures for the Lions Club calendar each year. Mr. Jenney has often been referred to as the "Unofficial Photographer" for the Presto Press with his many pictures appearing in nearly every issue.

The surprise honoring of Mr. Jenney followed his presentation of slides of Mattapoisett to the regular membership meeting of the Lions Club.

The Mattapoisett Lions Club is thankful to Mr. Jenney for his dedicated love of Mattapoisett and his life-long dedication to making his town a better place to live. We would hope all of the citizens of Mattapoisett would join us in thanking Winfield Jenney and congratulate him as Mattapoisett's Citizen of 1979.

Win and his wife, Ruth, live on Church Street in Mattapoisett.

Housebreak Alert

SECURITY CHECK

A series of housebreaks in Mattapoisett village is the cause of much concern in that area. These breaks have occurred both at night and by day. The thieves are forcing doors or windows to enter from the back or side of the house and are after money and antiques. They may require a vehicle - car, truck or van to carry away the possessions.

What can be done to make a home more secure? Mattapoisett police advise the following basic steps:

- 1.) When you leave your home unattended ask a neighbor to visually check it every now and then.
- 2.) If you have light by the back door, leave it on to light the back of the house at night.
- 3.) Secure all windows and doors as well as possible.
- 4.) Report any suspicious phone call to the Mattapoisett Police Department at once (when the caller hangs up as soon as you answer).

5.) If you see a strange vehicle outside a home that you think is unattended call police to check it out.

6.) If you see even a well-dressed person (day or night) just loitering in the neighborhood, take a good look at the features of the individual and perhaps his vehicle and its license number. Jot down these details and give them to the police. OPERATION IDENTIFICATION

The Control Center of the Mattapoisett Police Department has an Operation Identification engraving tool for loan to residents to mark possessions so they can be readily identified if stolen. Stickers warning of these marked items are placed near the door. It is also a good plan to make an

If residents become an extension of the eyes and ears of the police the town will rapidly become too hot to operate in.

The important thing is the eyes and ears only - write down what you see immediately, before you request the cruiser to check it out. Log any suspicious people, or vehicles - height, color of hair, unusual features, clothing, license number, type of vehicle, color, make, model, markings or dents.

Therefore, everyone can expect twice the fright and triple the fun at Mattapoisett's mansion of mystery this year.

CUB PACK 53 NEWSLETTER

The Cub Scouting year started off smoothly with a good beginning thanks to so many who have volunteered their time.

In keeping with this past month's physical fitness theme, our guest speaker for the October 4 Pack Meeting will be Mr. Rodrigues of the Mattapoisett Track Club. One hundred percent attendance at this meeting would be appreciated as the boys have earned many awards and promotions will be made at this time. Pack meetings will continue at the Congregational Church Hall.

One final note: Cub Scouting celebrates its 50th birthday this year. Many special events will mark this special anniversary.

SUNDAY AFTER- NOON SERIES

On October 14 at 3 p.m. in the theater at the Old Dartmouth Historical Society (Whaling Museum), 18 Johnny Cake Hill, New Bedford, "Life Aboard a Whaler" will be discussed. Sheila Callaghan (docent) will lead a discussion of the life and conditions endured by the average whaling crew in the stifling confines of the fore-castle of a whaler. The character of the men involved and the composition of the crew make an interesting account of the dangerous, lonely and often monotonous life of a whaler.

This is part of the Sunday afternoon series and is free.

Open House

ORRJHS

Approximately 300 7th and 8th grade parents visited the Old Rochester Regional Junior High School on Thursday, September 13, from 7 to 9 p.m. Parents were obliged to follow their son's and daughter's schedules and visited the many teachers throughout the school where they were provided with reviews of programs, discussions of educational goals, and interpretations of required procedures and practices.

Mr. Gardner, the Principal, introduced members of the faculty and urged all the parents to become frequent guests of the Junior High School in order that they might observe first hand the day-to-day learning situations which the students encounter. He urged parents with any questions to immediately contact the school in order that they might be brought to the attention of the staff and dealt with expeditiously.

Mrs. Joan Braden, a Junior High School parent, elicited support for a parent group which might conceivably examine various social issues of common interest.

EXHIBITION AT ART CENTER

"One model: two visions" is the theme of the current exhibition in the Marion Art Center's Cecil Clark Davis Gallery. Photographer Sarah Benham and painter Sally Wylde point up the contrasts in their media and their approach to the figurative subject. The show, which opened September 28, and will run until October 14, is their first two-woman collaboration. (If you count the model, whose presence is very strong, it's really a three-woman show.)

Sarah Benham, who lives in South Dartmouth, was born in New Orleans and grew up in Mississippi. She studied painting, design and photography with Arnold Newman and Judy Dater at Maine Photography Workshop. She also studied with George Tice and Deborah Turbeville in Venice. Sarah has exhibited her work in southern New England. She is a traditional figura-

EXHIBITION AT "CRANBERRY GALLERY"

Paintings and sculpture by two well-known area artists share the spotlight in the current exhibition at the "Cranberry Gallery" of the Cranberry World Visitors' Center, Plymouth. The show, featuring works by sculptor Dennis Kowal and collages and acrylics by painter Brooks Kelly, runs through October 31.

Mr. Kelly, a businessman from Pembroke, whose second occupation is art, has had scores of one-man shows in important regional galleries including the South Shore Art Center, the Copley Society and the Bare Cove and West Shore Galleries in Providence. He has also won numerous awards for his original color-splashed works. Twenty-one canvases are on display in the present show.

The works of Mr. Kowal, a widely-acclaimed sculptor for nearly two decades, have also been seen in dozens of one-man and over 200 group shows. He is likewise

Five of his bold pieces, essentially abstract in design, are in the current "Cranberry Gallery" exhibition. They are fashioned out of a variety of materials: wood, steel, aluminum, and acrylic.

After viewing the art exhibition of admission-free Cranberry World, gallerygoers can follow the social and agricultural history of the cranberry from pre-colonial days to the present. Elaborate displays include both period and contemporary artifacts, photo montages, sight-and-sound shows, a diorama of a working cranberry farm and three authentic cranberry mini-bogs that surround the Center.

Cranberry World also offers visitors free cranberry recipes and refreshments, souvenir pins, and daily cooking demonstrations. A typical tour of the building takes approximately 30 minutes. The museum is open

This year, as part of Cape Cod October Seafest month, the Scallop Festival will add to its menu a fried fish of an "underutilized species" - which will be provided by the Massachusetts Seafood Council. The fish addition to the menu will be offered at no additional charge, but simply as a way of promoting the growth of the fishing industry on Cape Cod.
